The Artist is responsible for developing a maintenance plan on a form supplied by the Township for each Public Art artistic work. The maintenance plan must be submitted to the Township for review and consideration along with the proposal to select the artistic work for acquisition. Therefore, maintenance plans must also meet the satisfaction of the appropriate Township departmental staff through ISWG. Maintenance plans will include, but are not limited to, maintenance specifications, budget implications, manufacturer lists, and key contacts, including the Artist.

The Township is responsible for the care and maintenance of the artistic work, in accordance with the approved maintenance plan. Parks and Recreation staff will monitor the maintenance plan. - Endangerment of public safety;
- Excessive repair or maintenance;
- Irreparable damage;
- Site redevelopment.

THE DE-ACCESSIONED ARTISTIC WORK MAY BE MOVED, SOLD, RETURNED TO THE ARTIST OR DESTROYED, WITH ANY MONIES RECEIVED THROUGH A SALE ALLOCATED TO THE PUBLIC ART RESERVE FUND. FINAL DECISIONS WILL BE MADE BY COUNCIL.

Before the Township of Esquimalt was formed, the ləkʷəŋən speaking Peoples lived in balance and interconnectedness with the land and water.

We honour these homelands and their stewardship by the Songhees and Esquimalt Peoples by acknowledging that we are on these traditional, ancestral, and unceded territories. We continue to learn about these lands and are grateful to ləkʷəŋən artists and knowledge-sharers who guide this work.

Key Takeaways

The Township benefits from being a growing community that is welcoming a new generation of residents and creative entrepreneurs and producers, along with an established arts-friendly public. The visual public realm is significantly enhanced by the intentional and thoughtful placement of artworks to-date through its existing public art policy. The Art in Public Spaces Plan identifies ways the Township can ensure it keeps pace with an increased demand for an enhanced public realm and achieve its aims through arts and culture-led community and economic development.

Being arts-friendly at the Township is a key consideration for the Plan's implementation—where are our policies and practices helping advance cultural development, and where are they getting in the way? The creation of a Creative Placemaking Advisory Group with subject matter experts, and an Interdepartmental Working Group are two key roles and responsibilities for carrying-out the Plan.

The Plan is guided by a vision and strategic commitment to: create spaces that are meaningful, inspiring, thought-provoking and accessible; honour Esquimalt and Songhees heritage; empower creativity and community; and support the development of artists and design.

The need for improved organization and coordination of a policy that encapsulates the five distinctive programmatic areas of public art and an expanded definition of public art, to include:

- Community Art Program
- Civic and Capital Projects Program
- Creative Placemaking for Temporary PA, Street Art and Art Activations
- Private Developer Program
- Acquisitions and Maintenance Program

Creative Placemaking is a distinctive emphasis in the present Art in Public Spaces Plan and reflects a new direction for public art policies and program that offers a hybrid approach to implementing local government cultural development aims with public art. Learn more about Creative Placemaking in the Introduction, Section 1.2 page 9.

Engagement with the community revealed an arts-loving public who greatly contributed to the vision and strategic directions of the plan, and particularly resonated in informing the Plan's Values and Guiding Principles of:

- Cultural and Natural Heritage
- Diversity
- Openness and Ease
- Support
- Dialogue
- Sustainable

Featured on page 29.

Public Art linkages to other Township policies, strategic and land use plans, and Bylaws are numerous and varied. This highlights the importance of having a robust and effective interdepartmental team managing this work. Creating a Procedures Manual and Operations Handbook for Staff to enhance coordination, support and delivery of the program, is another major recommendation of the present plan, along with the increasing need for an eventual part-time contract of a Community Connections Specialist role. Thank you to staff who attended workshops for their helpful input.

Ensuring community members had active, participatory and creative ways of participating in the Plan's development was a key objective of the engagement framework. The Project Team extends its thanks to the over 300 people who contributed to the shaping of this Plan, and in particular the "Help us Paint a Picture" Sounding Board Campaign and the virtual Kudoboard. See Section 2—Engagement page 17.

Listening and learning to understand and share meaning in the reflections of place, and Indigenous Cultural Heritage and Natural Heritage is a central objective of Strategic Direction 2 –ləkʷənən and Local—featuring artists of this land and place. See page 33.

10

Going forward, "Quick Wins" to ensure the Art in Public Spaces Plan is activated are identified on page 38 along with the delivery of an Implementation Framework and ongoing communications and engagement throughout the life of the Plan.

1.0 Introduction

1.0 INTRODUCTION

1.1 Background

In 2016, the Township of Esquimalt adopted a comprehensive Public Art Policy to establish a standardized and transparent process for the selection, acquisition, maintenance and de-accession of public art, and to provide a sustainable funding model for the management of public art.

The Public Art Policy is effective as a policy tool, it does not, however, provide strategic direction for investment and priorities for Esquimalt's art in public spaces. Recognizing this planning gap, as well as the need to develop tools to support local cultural development, the Township engaged Patricia Huntsman Culture + Communication in April 2021 to undertake the Art in Public Places Principal Plan project.

The purpose of the Art in Public Spaces Principal Plan project is to:

- Identify potential for public art in Esquimalt;
- Link with other key planning initiatives, bylaws and policies;
- Outline governance, funding and operational policies and procedures for implementing a public art program; and
- Develop a broad guiding and working document with an implementation plan and funding strategy.

The Principal Plan project culminated in the production of the Township of Esquimalt Art in Public Places Principal Plan—a visionary five-year planning document that defines the future direction of art in Esquimalt's public places.

1.2 Art in Public Spaces

Public art is artwork in the public realm (e.g. facades, parks, streets, public open spaces), which is physically or visually accessible to the public and possesses aesthetic qualities. It has evolved from more traditional notions of public art, such as traditional bronze statues, to now encompass a range of forms, sizes and scales that often interpret the history, people, social and/or environmental issues of place.

Whether permanent or temporary, public art can manifest in diverse forms such as murals, digital new media, sculpture and integrated architectural or landscape architectural work.

The experience of public art has also evolved, shifting away from passive, where the spectator merely views, to a more participatory activity. Examples of participatory art-based experiences range in scope from Burning Man to community created murals and art gardens, all of which engage the spectator and invite them to take on roles as creators of art.

In recognition that many types of art forms and disciplines can assist in activating and animating the public realm, more commonly and inclusively, public art is termed as 'art in public spaces'.

Art in public spaces can play an important role in cultural development, helping to strengthen communities' cultural identities and cultures by developing 'spirit of place' through the commissioning, collecting and incorporation of unique works of art.

For example, art in public spaces is being incorporated into municipal signage and gateway designs to foster community identity and improve brand awareness.

Art in public spaces is also used to share stories to connect people and places, beautify and invigorate the public realm and humanize built environments.

What is Public Art? = Art in Public Spaces

Invests in a space with 'place-making' qualities and culture, it has the capacity to interpret the historic, social, cultural and narrative nuances that distinguish our communities and create a true sense of place.

—The Arts Office, North Vancouver

“Welcome” pillars in several languages and in braille

New models and processes are being explored to enhance the inclusivity, impact and sustainability of art in public spaces initiatives as a response to civic issues and community needs.

The narrative in many cities is changing to stress the importance of investing in public space and in expanding creative placemaking initiatives of which public art is a crucial component.

Creative placemaking is a process that uses arts and cultural strategies to implement community-led change. It intentionally leverages the power of the arts, culture and creativity to serve a community's interest that also builds character and quality of place. Creative placemaking outcomes can be both physical (e.g. rejuvenated or activated public spaces) and social (e.g. relationship building among diverse stakeholders).

Examples of such projects include using artists to imbue playground areas, basketball courts and other public spaces with bold, colourful patterns, creating temporary “pop-up” patios in existing parking spots featuring art installations and space for live performances—and more!

As cultural development and creative placemaking are increasingly recognized as essential to community-building and economic development, art in public spaces, artists, and creative workers are being welcomed and embedded into all facets of community planning and development. With this comes the opportunity to meaningfully integrate art in public spaces into public projects and the public realm, thereby shaping community character, strengthening quality of place and helping to create place attachment among people living and working in communities.

Cultural development is the strategic planning and implementation of strategies to leverage a community’s unique cultural resources for the social, economic, environmental and cultural benefit of a community.

1.3 Community Profile

Esquimalt is located on the southern tip of what is known colonially as Vancouver Island. It is bordered to the east by the provincial capital, Victoria, to the south by the Strait of Juan de Fuca, to the west by Esquimalt Harbour and Royal Roads, to the northwest by the Esquimalt First Nation, the New Songhees First Nation and the town of View Royal, and to the north by the Gorge Inlet, across which is the district municipality of Saanich.

The area is home to the Esquimalt and the Songhees Peoples. In the language of the ləkʷəŋən-speaking peoples, Es-woy-malth means 'place of shoaling waters', which reflects the community's maritime setting. In the most recent Census, Esquimalt had a total Indigenous population of 1,190 people with the majority identifying as Métis (43%), and (55%) identified as First Nations, reflecting a blend of urban Indigenous People and local ləkʷəŋən-speaking People.

Esquimalt is a growing community, as demonstrated by its surge in development and planned areas for future residential intensification (e.g. Esquimalt Town Square, West Bay Triangle, Esquimalt Road Corridor), and corresponding population growth.

1.4 Public Art in Esquimalt

Esquimalt's OCP provides broad policy direction to support art in public spaces. Other municipal documents such as the Economic Development Strategy, Public Art Policy and neighbourhood design guidelines further articulate the Township's focus on integrating public art into the 'everyday life' of Esquimalt.

The Municipal Hall has several works of art, including original watercolours, acrylics and limited edition prints on display in public areas, meeting rooms and offices. Through its first public art competition in 2004, which coincided with the development of the Municipal Hall, Esquimalt now features several art pieces on the exterior of the building including, Re-emergence of the Lifebringers by Marianne Nicolson, Thunderbird Orca Spindle Whorl by Charles Elliott, Mosaic Garden by Rosemary and Geoff Murray and Ribbon of Life by Daniel Cline. New development is also spurring more public art in the community.

Esquimalt's Town Square, which is part of the larger Esquimalt Village Project, is planned to include civic, residential and commercial uses, among which is a public square and a through-block art walk.

(Left) Re-emergence of the Lifebringers: this mural by Marianne Nicolson is located on the outside wall of the Municipal Hall at 1229 Esquimalt Road

(Right) Thunderbird Orca Spindle Whorl by Charles Elliott

The limited amount of public art in Esquimalt is centralized within the Esquimalt town centre. While effective in contributing to the revitalization of Esquimalt’s town core and ongoing economic development efforts, other areas of Esquimalt would also benefit from art in public spaces which are identified in Strategic Direction 5 of the plan on page 37.

These art in public spaces could help revitalize Esquimalt Road Boulevard and invigorate existing mixed uses (commercial, medium and high density residential). As active and passive recreation is valued in the community, parks and trails such as the E&N Trail—Galloping Goose and Saxe Point Park could also serve as key strategic sites for future art in public spaces. Other possible opportunities include the numerous gateways to Esquimalt from Victoria, Saanich and View Royal which could be enhanced through art in public spaces to celebrate arrival. Sense of place and place attachment could also be nurtured within Esquimalt’s six neighbourhoods through art in public spaces that reflects the stories of people and places unique to these areas.

“Public Art strengthens community identity and culture by developing “spirit of place” through the commissioning, collecting and incorporation of unique works of art.

Broader Context of Cultural Development

Like any sector in today's economy, Canada's $54 billion cultural sector is undergoing significant change. These broader factors need to be taken into consideration in both local cultural development and more specifically for strategies around art in public spaces strategy, and at the community partnerships level:

Truth and Reconciliation Calls to Action

Rapid scale prototyping to respond to community issues

Festivals and Events, Participatory Experiences

Equity, Diversity, Accessibility and Inclusion

Family arts

Creative Placemaking and Co-Activating Spaces

Lifecycle of arts organizations

New operating models e.g. Epoch model

Interpretative Assistance

New approaches to art-making (at odds with funding models)

PLAN

2.0 ENGAGEMENT

2.1 Approach

As a plan to guide the incorporation of art in public space, Township staff, artists, community groups, Indigenous artists, and, most importantly, the public were all consulted to capture the narrative of the communities' views and aspirations for public art.

Phase 2 of the development of the Township's Art in Public Spaces Principal Plan utilized a comprehensive engagement strategy that was guided by the following objectives:

Celebrates pride of place and arts and cultural life of Esquimalt.

Engage with community members in public spaces in active, participatory and creative ways.

Build on current practices and trends in creative placemaking to enhance the public realm.

The information gathered from multiple stakeholders through targeted community outreach and open dialogue provided considerable insights that helped shape the Art in Public Spaces Plan's Strategic Directions and Guiding Principles.

A section of Carlisle between Fraser and Park could be made into a pedestrian street, with painted walkways, benches, planted trees, an art display and perhaps a space or two for food trucks (something like the attached, on a smaller scale, but softened with more trees and natural landscaping... or simply a mixture of some of the ideas on this page).

Developers are proposing a pedestrian path connecting Carlisle and Lyall, and that ped path could spill onto this new pedestrian area and connect into the art walk in the Town square development.

The recent Town Square project and the Carlisle proposal is bringing in a good amount of additional homes and people to the area, so another outdoor, artistic and nature-filled gathering space that could be friendly for music and food could be really great here.

(There would also be a significant benefit for the new Carlisle development, so perhaps they would be willing to contribute.)

Expand the definition of public art in the Township’s Public Art Policy to include the following program areas:

- Community Art Program
- Civic and Capital Projects Program
- Creative Placemaking for Temporary PA, Street Art and Art Activations
- Private Developer Program
- Acquisitions and Maintenance Program

Support the Vision, Values and Guiding Principles for the Township Art in Public Spaces Plan and its adoption in principle.

The expanded definition of the policy centres on the inclusion of temporary works of art, and would include the addition of the five distinctive programmatic areas. See page 31 for the expanded definition.

Work towards establishing the Community Arts Project Grants and the Small Neighbourhood Grants programs.

Establish a stand-alone Creative Placemaking Advisory Group and Interdepartmental Working Group with clear roles and responsibilities to effectively advise on, manage and implement the Art in Public Spaces Plan and Program.

Use creative placemaking as a strategic tool to advance cultural development at the Township.

Connected and collaborative: Engaging community arts.

Outdoor arts is integrated into our everyday.

Key sites for signature projects.

Strategic Direction 1

Creative place-making: Animating spaces through the arts.

Being arts-friendly by reducing red tape, and creating arts-ready sites through careful planning to consider cultural infrastructure will help to facilitate creative place-making such as temporary public art, street art and new creative expression in civic spaces and neighbourhoods through the commission and exhibition of works.

Objective 1.1:

To transform spaces by intentionally leveraging artistic and creative activity to serve the community and build identity and quality of place.

SUPPORTING ACTIONS

1. Expand the Public Art Policy definition of art in public spaces to the following:

"Art in public spaces" (public art) is defined as original artwork selected, commissioned, created, programmed or donated for location in the public domain, and created by an artist. Artworks and activity may be permanent or transitory, functional, integrated or discrete to the site. Artwork created or initiated by the community for the public realm, which may be led by an artist, is also considered public art.

2. Support neighbourhood and resident-led opportunities for pop-up arts activities to animate spaces by:

Story Festival in Memorial Park

- creating an easy-to-complete check list of requirements and reduce red-tape to foster creative activity by residents and local groups.
- introducing a Small Neighbourhoods Grant Program (up to $1,000 for activities and $2,500 for creative placemaking projects)
3. Be an arts-friendly community—encourage local street-level commercial spaces with empty storefronts to provide temporary pop-up gallery spaces, thereby increasing pedestrian traffic, reducing vandalism, and attracting interest and investment.
4. Expand terms of allocation for the Public Art Fund to provide more transparency and access to public art funding for program areas such as creative placemaking.

5. Integrate creative placemaking tools such as light installations, façade interventions, self-guided art walks and runs, performance sites, and pop up arts spots as part of public art programming throughout the Township.
6. In partnership with Esquimalt Community Arts Hub or another community group, program a “Feed the Arts” series of Pop Up Picnics and Cafes with local vendors and food trucks to activate spaces, encourage gathering*, raise awareness of art in public spaces, and facilitate creative placemaking. Sale proceeds to be directed towards the public art fund or mural project.
7. Form an Interdepartmental Art in Public Spaces Staff Team to encourage a creative placemaking lens in Township planning and initiatives for the purpose of identifying and increasing intergenerational, inviting and creatively designed urban spaces.
8. Identify and develop a network of ‘creative zones’— a series of year-round arts-ready programmed spaces such as at Street Plaza by the Archie Browning Centre for arts activation. Ensure a distributed network of creative zones beyond the downtown core.
9. Work with an outside organization, such as the Esquimalt Community Arts Hub Mural Festival program, for identifying creative placemaking opportunities as a ‘quick win’ in implementing creative placemaking during COVID recovery.
10. Create an inventory of arts-ready programmable public spaces (creative zones) and art plans for vacant property and businesses.
11. Form a Creative Placemaking Advisory group with representation from curators, working artists, creative entrepreneurs, cultural producers, community members, and staff liaison to provide direction for site selection process and suitable creative placemaking opportunities and tasked with implementation of this Strategic Direction. Community members should ideally represent diverse backgrounds and serve as representatives from Township neighbourhoods.

12. Consider art activities that can become shareable on social media to increase accessibility and enjoyment of our sense of place; and encourage interactivity of the senses.

Strategic Direction 2

ləkʷəŋən and Local: Featuring artists of this land and place.

Reflecting Indigenous cultural heritage and natural heritage is a priority through meaningful relationship-building with Songhees and Esquimalt artists. Our thanks to the artists who contributed their feedback.

OBJECTIVE 2.1:

Listen to local Songhees and Esquimalt First Nations—the ləkʷəŋən People— to understand and share meaning in their reflections of place.

SUPPORTING ACTIONS

1. Observing appropriate engagement protocols, hear from local First Nations as to their stories of the meaning of these lands and place.
2. Reflect local Indigenous stories through art in public spaces. This may include:
 - a. Façade interventions
 - b. Interpretive signage
 - c. Place names and language use
 - d. Didactic panels on trails and in parks
 - e. Animating local art walks with storytellers
3. Create an Indigenous Artist in Residence Program at the Township of Esquimalt, beginning with the Pavilion opening.
4. Prioritize the Pavilion and near-term construction projects as key sites for commissioning significant Indigenous public artwork.

5. Create an Artist in the Park program to include a dynamic role wherein an artist would design and lead guided, active interpretive-based projects over the summer months.
6. Work to decolonize public art calls and remove barriers to access for Indigenous artists.
7. Continue to build relationships with the Tah'lum Indigenous Artist Collective to guide decolonization actions in art in public spaces.
8. Involve Indigenous artists in advising on and guiding projects earlier on in site and artist selection processes.
9. Assist in supporting the development of studio and practice space for ləkʷəŋən artists to remove this barrier to participating in art in public spaces calls.
10. Create opportunities for Songhees and Esquimalt artists to work in community on public art projects thereby offering more community voices towards creating and sharing work.

Strategic Direction 3

Connected and collaborative: Engaging community arts.

Community Arts, Public Engagement and Awareness are essential for engaging communities in developing pride of place. Community members will be involved in the public art program through art-making, consultation, education and promotion.

Objective 3.1

To foster social inclusion and wellness, participation, pride of place and arts awareness through community-based art in public spaces and collaboration with community groups.

Supporting Actions

1. Reflect the needs of equity-seeking communities by ensuring representation in the new community Creative Placemaking Advisory Group, and by working in partnership with local equity-seeking groups.
2. Create arts kits throughout the Township in specific sites such as parks to encourage art-making by residents. Allow for temporary display.
3. Identify a community partner to support the coordination of the Street Arts Banner Program in keeping with Township guidelines.

(Top) Lantern Festival

(Bottom) Ukulele Club

4. Hold an orientation workshop every two years for community groups and volunteers on how to work with the Township with the aim of familiarizing participants with safety requirements and regulations.

5. Work in partnership with Esquimalt Community Arts Hub, the local Community Arts Council, or other local arts agencies in identifying and implementing an annual calendar of community-based arts-making activities and projects such as a mural program or other identified opportunities, sharing volunteers for creative placemaking activities, sourcing local artists for community-based projects etc.
6. Work with local artists as subject-matter experts in advisor and facilitator roles in community-based arts projects.
7. Designate certain sites for street art, ideally situated in creative zones or high urban density locations.
8. Develop a Community Arts Project Grant (up to $5,000 for creative placemaking projects) to support small, temporary community-driven art projects.

The Community Arts program would reflect the Guiding Principles of the Art in Public Spaces Program, as well as opportunities to enrich cultural life in neighbourhoods and public spaces.

The Community Arts Project Grant program should aim to support small- scale community-engaged art projects including events, festivals, and celebrations to:

- Support communities to experience and create artistic and cultural work
- Expand equity-seeking communities access to culturally relevant work
- Increase opportunities for equity-seeking groups to explore and share their cultural heritage
- Offer co-creative projects between communities and artists or cultural practitioners
- Amplify cultural life throughout Esquimalt neighbourhoods, communities and public spaces

- Build and strengthen connections across and between diverse communities
9. Create engaging communication tools to help educate residents on the role and value of public art in the Township while linking to heritage and history of place.
 10. Work with the community and local partners in designating at least two 'creative zones' for children's artwork and art-making.
 11. Engage young adults in public art and placemaking through Instagram photo essay contests or other digital tools. Begin with engagement and consultation with local youth-led groups.
 12. Foster social inclusion and wellness by linking with local social agencies, seniors and newcomers' groups to identify ways of introducing and welcoming these demographics into Esquimalt's community arts programs.
 13. Identify urban canvas spaces/ free walls as part of the "Creative Zones" for street art use as part of temporary public art works.

Strategic Direction 4

Outdoor arts is integrated into our everyday.

Outdoor arts was a rising trend pre-COVID that has become an increasingly sought-after demand for art in public spaces participation.

1. Link with Parks planning and previous supporting actions in other Strategic Direction areas that relate to outdoor art opportunities.
2. Refer to the many Kudoboard examples that integrated art in public spaces to outdoor arts through landscape design, parks equipment with music, ease-of use and enjoyment pieces such as bird houses, bicycle racks and benches, pathways and gating, etc.
3. Use parking lots as temporary spaces for art performance and presentation.
4. Create a small neighbourhood grants program to support for outdoor art in public spaces opportunities, or link to new Community Arts program fund.
5. Support the development of an urban art tour or art crawl that invites Township residents to see the work of the arts community.

Roles and Responsibilities

Establishing a stand-alone Creative Placemaking Advisory Group and Interdepartmental Working Group with clear roles and responsibilities is essential to effectively advise on, manage and implement the Art in Public Spaces Plan and Program. Respecting the recommendations of subject matter experts such as curators, arts practitioners, cultural producers and creative entrepreneurs will make a significant difference in the successful outcome of the Art in Public Spaces Plan's implementation.

While the Township is growing its awareness of strategic cultural development across its interdepartmental team, it should work towards resourcing a contracted role* for supporting this expanding area that requires a background in cultural development. There is growing community frustration of not having a dedicated arts and culture specialist role to facilitate this work at the Township which is recommended as future staffed role.

Going forward, it is envisioned that the Interdepartmental Working Group and the Creative Advisory Group will outline Years 2-5 in the Implementation Framework which will include identified resources, success metrics, project/task lead and timelines. An outline of Year 1 Implementation actions are identified on the following page.

this can be a non-employee role to begin in the form of a contracted role at 25 hours per week or in combination with third-party service delivery agreements with qualified community arts organizations.*
